Historical Sketch.

In 1801, a swamp: in 1811, a small military post, soon to be abandoned and to be the scene of a terrible Indian massacre: in 1821, again an insignificant military station: in 1831, a village of twelve houses, without mail routes, post roads or post office: in 1841, an incorporated city, with 5,752 inhabitants, and an export trade amounting to $328,635: in 1851, rapidly assuming commercial importance; on the eve of possessing railway communication with New York; its grain shipments increased to 4,646,831 bushels; its population numbering 34,437: in 1861, its grain, pork and lumber interests all enormously developed; its population almost quadrupled, and its shipments of breadstuffs increased tenfold within a single decade: in 1871, rich, proud and magnificent; bidding fair to outstrip the most famous commercial cities of either the old or new world; but suddenly, on that memorable October night, almost swept out of existence, only to rise triumphantly from its ashes in more than its former splendor, a monument of indomitable spirit and energy: in 1881, the greatest railroad centre, live-stock market and primary grain port in the world; the scene of the ceaseless activities of half a million of eager, restless toilers, attracted by its fame from far and near: and in 1883 still advancing, with rapid strides, in everything that distinguishes a great metropolitan city: such, in brief, is the history of Chicago, the Garden City, the Phoenix City of America, the capital of the wealth-producing West.

The growth of Chicago has throughout been coincident with the development and prosperity of the Western States and Territories. Of Illinois and Iowa especially may it be said to have grown with their growth and strengthened with their strength. Young as is Chicago, it was not until after its incorporation as a city that what is now the great State of Iowa received even a Territorial organization; while it was only in 1818 that Illinois, now leading all the other States in cereal productions and mileage of railroads, and even ranking fourth in manufactures, was admitted into the Union, with a population of about 30,000, mainly settled in the southern part of the State.

Location, Climate, Population, Etc.

Chicago is situated on the west shore of Lake Michigan; in $41^{\circ} 52'$ N. lat. and $87^{\circ} 35'$ W. long.; 854 miles from Baltimore, the nearest point on the Atlantic seaboard, and 2,417 miles from San Francisco. Its mean elevation is 75 feet above Lake Michigan, or 591 feet above mean sea-level.

The observations of the Signal Service Office, Jan. 1, 1872, to Dec. 31, 1882, show the mean barometric pressure during that period to have been 29.303 inches (corrected for temperature, but not reduced to sea-level); the mean annual temperature, 49.06° ; the mean annual precipitation, 36.64 inches; and the mean annual humidity of the air, 70.9, 100 representing complete saturation. The maximum annual precipitation was 44.18 inches, in 1881; the minimum, 27.37 inches, in 1872. The highest mean annual temperature was that of 1878, 51.40° ; the lowest that of 1875, 45.42° .

The climate is healthful and invigorating, although the winters are cold and the temperature in summer is liable to great and sudden changes. The deaths in 1882 numbered 13,234, equal to 23.6 per thousand. The death rate for the last eight years has averaged 20.2, having been as low as 16.5 in 1878 and 17.2 in 1879, a record almost without parallel in the experience of large cities.

The population of the City in June, 1882, was 560,693, in which were included 5,812 colored persons and 349 Chinese. All the great European States are largely represented, nearly one-half of the inhabitants being of foreign birth. In 1880, Cook county, five-sixths of whose population reside within the City limits, numbered among its foreign-born inhabitants—

THE OLD KINZIE HOUSE, IN 1833.

93,699 Germans, 50,905 Irish, 28,852 Scandinavians, 21,250 English and Scotch, 14,960 Canadians and 12,097 Bohemians.

The Municipality.

The area of the City is 23,040 acres, or 36 square miles, divided by the Chicago river and its branches into three sections, known as the North, South and West Divisions, or, more popularly, Sides. These are connected by 34 swing-bridges and two tunnels, the latter at Washington and La Salle streets.

There are 651 miles of streets, with a total area of 5,200 acres; and 51 miles of drives, within the City limits. [See Parks and Boulevards.]

The Fire Department, one of the most efficient in the world, possesses 32 steam fire-engines, 4 chemical engines, 9 hook and ladder trucks, and 185 horses, with a staff of 375 men. By the Fire Alarm Telegraph System, established at a cost of a quarter of a million dollars, an alarm can be instantaneously flashed to the nearest station from any part of the City. Strangers can not remain long in the City without having an opportunity of judging of the efficiency of the Fire Department, there being on an average three fires a day. With such alacrity are the alarms responded to, that the loss occasioned by the 981 actual fires of 1882 was only $569,885, an average loss of but $581. The cost of the Department in 1882 was $545,021. It has an adjunct of considerable importance in the Fire Insurance Patrol, established in 1871 by the underwriters of the City, and an organization admirably equipped and highly efficient.

The police force consists of 557 men, a much smaller number in proportion to the population and the amount of crime than is usually considered necessary. The numerical weakness of the force is to some extent made up for by the use of the telegraph and the patrol wagon. There were 32,800 arrests made in 1882. The cost of the department was $659,493.

Chicago deriving its water supply from Lake Michigan, the disposal of the drainage of the City was a serious and perplexing problem until, by a triumph of engineering skill, the current of the Chicago river was reversed, and the stream made to run out of Lake Michigan into the Illinois and Michigan canal, and thence through the Illinois river to the Mississippi.

The total income of the City for 1882 was $8,605,507; the amount of its bonded debt, December 30, $12,752,000; the valuation of the City estate, including uncollected taxes, $21,061,640.

The Water Works.

Foremost among the public works of Chicago is the costly and unique contrivance by which it draws its supply of water from the lake. Two miles from the shore there is fixed a substantial floating structure, known, for want of a better name, as the "Crib," within which is an iron cylinder, 9 feet in diameter, going down 31 feet below the bottom of the lake, and connecting with two distinct tunnels, leading to separate pumping works on shore. The tunnel first constructed, communicating with the pumping works at the foot of Chicago avenue [Q 7], is five feet in diameter; the second tunnel, conveying water to the West Side works, at the corner of Blue Island avenue and Twenty-second street [I 17], is 7 feet in diameter and six miles in length. At the shore end of each tunnel the water is forced by enormous engines to the top of a lofty tower, from which its own weight distributes it through the City. The quantity consumed by the City in 1882 was 24,150,000,000 gallons, averaging upwards of 66,000,000 gallons per day. The Water estate is valued at $9,353,314, and the collections in 1882 were $1,050,034.

The North Side works may be visited at the same time as Lincoln Park and the Lake Shore Drive. [See Parks and Boulevards.] The tower [175 ft.] affords one of the finest views of the City and harbor. Its ascent is safe and easy. The key can be obtained from the engineer.

The West Side works are in the Lumber District. They may be reached by the Blue Island avenue (Western avenue) cars, from Madison street.

Railroads and Depots.

Chicago is the centre of 23,000 miles of railroad. Six terminal depots accommodate the trains of 18 different companies, and there are 28 other stations within the City limits, for the convenience of local passengers. The Union Depot, Canal street [M 11], used by the Pittsburg, Ft. Wayne and Chicago, the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, and other railroads; the depot of the Michigan Southern and Rock Island roads, Van Buren street [O 13]; and that of the Chicago and North-Western, Wells and Kinzie streets [N 9], are among the most prominent buildings in the City.

UNION DEPOT, CORNER OF CANAL AND ADAMS STREETS.

The first named is one of the largest and finest railroad depots in the world. Fronting on Canal street, and extending from West Madison street to West Adams street, a distance of 1,200 feet, it occupies four entire blocks. Alighting under cover, passengers enter the lofty, commodious and richly decorated ticket office, from which they pass either to the platforms or to any of the waiting-rooms, retiring-rooms or restaurants with which this model depot is provided.

Street Cars, Hacks, Etc.

Chicago possesses one of the most complete systems of street railways in the world, being literally gridironed with their tracks. The three divisions of the City are operated by separate companies. The cars are used by about 200,000 persons a day. The fare is five cents.

The North Chicago City Railway Company has 31 miles of track, and owns 100 summer cars, 150 box cars and 1,250 horses. It carried in 1882, 16,338,594 passengers, an average of 44,763 a day.

The company operating the West Division has 35 miles of track. Its equipment is 156 summer cars, 362 box cars and 2,700 horses. Its cars traveled, in 1882, 6,710,760 miles.

The South Side is operated by the Chicago City Railway Company, which has, to a large extent, dispensed with the use of horses by the adoption of the Cable System. Every ordinary car or train of cars has attached to it a "grip-car," containing an arrangement for "gripping" an underground wire cable kept in motion by powerful engines located at the corner of State and Twenty-first streets. Since the opening of the first section, in the early part of 1882, many fatal accidents have occurred by persons being run over, and many vexatious delays have been occasioned by the breakage of the cable or by the driver losing his grip. On the whole, however, the system may be pronounced a success. It is daily doing the work of 880 horses, and is carrying 2,000,000 passengers a month.

Strangers will do well to remember that throughout the City cars will stop only at the farther side of street crossings, except in the middle of long blocks, where stopping places are indicated by signs.

Omnibuses meet all the important trains at the terminal depots, to transfer passengers from one depot to another, or to convey them to the hotels. Fare 50 cents.

Carriages may be ordered at any of the principal hotels.

Public Buildings.

The principal public buildings are the Court House and City Hall, the Post Office and Custom House, the Inter-State Exposition Building, the Chamber of Commerce, the Criminal Court and Jail, the First National Bank [see The Banks], the Chicago University [see Educational Institutions], and the Cook County Hospital and neighboring Medical Colleges.

COUNTY COURT HOUSE AND CITY HALL, CLARK AND WASHINGTON STREETS.

Court House and City Hall.

This magnificent twin-building, the largest and most imposing of the public edifices of Chicago, is one of the finest structures devoted to county and municipal purposes in the world. It occupies an entire square [O 11], bounded east and west by Clark and La Salle streets, and north and south by Randolph and Washington streets. In style a free treatment of the French renaissance, it is built of Upper Silurian limestone, quarried mainly along the Desplaines river in this State, and adorned with massive columns of the finest granite. The length of each of the two façades is 340 feet, the width of the entire building 280 feet, and its height from the ground line 124 feet. The eastern half, fronting on Clark street, is occupied by the various officials of Cook county, who are located in spacious and elegant apartments; the rooms devoted to the administration of justice being models of court-room convenience.

The completion of the western half, or City Hall, has been much hindered by the fact that the legal limit of taxation, 2 per cent., is too low to admit of any considerable amount of money being devoted to building purposes. It is, however, probable that, either by special legislation or in some other way, the means necessary to its completion will very shortly be made available. The amount required to make the building ready for occupation is about $570,000, the expenditure of which will raise the cost of the entire edifice to about $4,400,000.

Post Office and Custom House.

Next to the County Court House and City Hall, the finest and most important public building is the United States Post Office and Custom House, situated on Clark and Dearborn streets, between Adams and Jackson streets [O 12]. It is one of the largest buildings of its kind in the country, being 342 feet long by 210 feet in width. The handsome interior court, 198 feet by 83 feet, open to the roof, with the whole of the rooms on the first floor, and the entire basement, is occupied by the Post Office department. The amount of business transacted annually by this department is immense. In 1882 its receipts were $1,877,251, and the total number of pieces of mail matter delivered within the City limits by the 221 carriers, during the last fiscal year, was no less than 114,832,000. The second and third floor offices are occupied by the Customs, Internal Revenue, Sub-Treasury, Pension and Interior departments. During 1882 duties to the amount of $3,696,711 were collected by the Customs, on merchandise valued at $7,904,681. The internal revenue collections for the same period amounted to $9,579,497, of which sum $7,612,688 represented beer and spirit stamps, and $1,637,932 cigars and tobacco. The entire cost of the commodious and elegant building devoted to these various purposes was about $6,000,000.

The Inter-State Exposition Building.

There is probably no other building in Chicago with whose name strangers are so familiar as with that of the structure popularly known as the Chicago Exposition [P 12]. The largest building in the world whose roof is unsupported by pillars; occupying a commanding position on the Lake Front; built after the model of the famous exposition building at Vienna, in the short space of ninety-six days; it has been rendered still more remarkable by the many important purposes for which it has been used. The place of meeting of the memorable Republican Convention of 1880, the assembly hall of the Musical Festival of 1882, and, above all, the home of those exhibitions of the industrial, scientific and artistic productions of the Northwest which annually attract so many thousands of visitors to this great City, its name has become a household word throughout the West, even with thousands who have never seen it. Nearly 800 feet in length by 240 feet in width, 110 feet high, and with three lofty towers, its magnificent proportions excite universal admiration. These, however, are far less worthy of attention than is its remarkable adaptation to those great purposes for which it was erected, the facilities afforded for the advantageous display of every class of exhibits being almost unequaled.

INTER-STATE INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION BUILDING, MICHIGAN AVENUE AND ADAMS STREET.

OLD CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, LA SALLE AND WASHINGTON STREETS.

The Board of Trade.

The new building of this organization is situated at the foot of LaSalle street, near the Grand Pacific Hotel [O 13]. It is a unique granite structure, covering a space of 225 feet x 174 feet, and surmounted by a tower, tapering into a pinnacle, 265 feet above the pavement. This tower is surrounded, at an altitude of 200 feet, by a look-out balcony, commanding a fine view of the city, country and lake for many miles around; while the whole is surmounted by a crown of 30 electric lamps, having 2,000 candle-power each.

The interior is very elaborate, especially the great trading hall of the Board, which occupies a space of 174 feet x 155 feet, and is 80 feet high, with a glass ceiling 70 feet x 80 feet.

The Board of Trade, founded in 1848 and incorporated in 1850, with 13 subscribers, has increased to nearly 2,000 members, paying each an annual assessment of $75. The admission fee, starting at $5.00, has been raised from time to time, until it is now $10,000. Memberships are transferable, however, and command from $3,500 to $5,000. The business transacted is confined to farm products, and is, of course, largely speculative, the visible supplies of the country being sold many times over in a season. The Board Clearing House statement for 1885 shows clearings of over $100,000 000. Transactions are permitted in lots of not less than 1,000 bushels of grain or 250 barrels of pork.

Visitors are admitted free to the gallery during business hours.

The old Chamber of Commerce building, at the corner of La Salle [O 11] and Washington streets, is now given over to offices.

The Criminal Court and Jail.

The Criminal Court and Jail is located on Dearborn avenue, Michigan and Illinois streets [P 9]. The jail contains 300 cells. It may be visited at the same time as the North Side Water Works and Lincoln Park.

The Cook County Hospital.

Three miles W. S. W. from the Court House stands the imposing group of buildings forming the Cook County Hospital [H 14]. It occupies two entire squares, being bounded north and south by West Harrison and West Taylor streets, and east and west by South Wood and South Lincoln streets. Recent extensions have made the hospital one of the largest, as it was already one of the most complete, institutions of its kind in the country. Contiguous to it are Rush Medical College, the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Chicago, and the Chicago Homœopathic College, the students of which enjoy the advantage of attending its various wards. [See Educational Institutions.]

The hospital and colleges may be reached by the Ogden avenue cars, starting from State and Madison streets.

Educational Institutions.

It is greatly to the credit of Chicago, the distinguishing characteristic of which has been said to be the pursuit of wealth with an energy and a singleness of purpose almost unexampled, to have made the splendid provision it has for the education of the young. Seventy-six primary, grammar and high schools; fifteen colleges of law, medicine and theology; half-a-dozen academies of art and science; and two universities, are not the marks of a community wholly given up to the acquisition of wealth.

The foundations of this magnificent educational system are laid in the public schools of the City, which, controlled by a Board of Education consisting of fifteen members, enjoying the oversight of an active and scholarly superintendent, and conducted by a staff of 1,019 devoted teachers, are maintained in the highest state of efficiency. On July 31, 1882, the number of enrolled pupils was 68,614, of whom 55,448 were attending the primary schools, 11,748 the grammar schools, and 1,377 the high schools, the remaining 41 being ungraded. The school buildings numbered 76, of which 67, valued with their equipment at $3,451,810, were the property of the City. The total expenditure of the Education Department for the year 1881-2 was $1,034,967, or $20.28 per pupil. Visitors, interested in the work of education are always courteously received at the public schools.

THROOP PUBLIC SCHOOL THROOP STREET BETWEEN EIGHTEENTH AND NINETEENTH STREETS

The Union College of Law, 80 and 82 Dearborn street [O 10], is governed by a Board of Management representing the Northwestern University and the University of Chicago, with both of which it is closely related. The course of study extends over two years, the fees, payable in advance, being $75 per year. The college diploma admits to the Bar of Illinois, provided the student has taken the full course of two years. The students number about 130.

The medical colleges are seven in number. Several of them, notably the College of Physicians and Surgeons and the Rush Medical College (both adjoining Cook County Hospital), are handsome and commodious buildings. The former, a very fine example of the Queen Anne style of architecture, consists of four stories and basement, surmounted by a tower 100 feet in height. The two fronts of the building, on Harrison and Honore streets, are of Lemont limestone, elaborately carved. The Rush Medical College is an equally beautiful building, in every respect befitting so important an institution. There are about 1,200 students receiving instruction in medicine and surgery in the medical schools of Chicago, of whom 450 are attending the Hahnemann and Homœopathic colleges.

With the medical colleges may be classed the College of Pharmacy, with 168 students, and the Illinois Training School for Nurses. [See Medical Colleges.]

The theological colleges are the Garrett Biblical Institute, at Evanston, belonging to the Methodist Episcopal Church; the Baptist Union Theological Seminary, Morgan Park; the Chicago Theological Seminary (Congregational), Union Park; the Presbyterian Theological Seminary of the Northwest, North Halsted street; and St. Ignatius College, West Twelfth street, all flourishing institutions, ranking high among the colleges of the respective churches. [See Colleges, etc.]

UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO, COTTAGE GROVE AVENUE.

The University of Chicago occupies a beautiful site on Cottage Grove avenue, between Thirty-third and Thirty-fifth streets [R 21]. It was founded by the late Stephen A. Douglas, to whose memory a fine monument has been erected at the east end of Douglas avenue (35th street). The University, which has a numerous and learned faculty, possesses, in addition to an extensive library, a museum, rich in geological, zoölogical and numismatic specimens, and also an herbarium. Connected with it is the Dearborn Observatory, famous for its equatorial refracting telescope, one of the largest in the world, and other costly astronomical apparatus.

The Northwestern University is located at Evanston, a beautiful village on Lake Michigan, eleven miles north of Chicago. The main building, which is of stone, cost over $110,000. The course of instruction is of the most complete character, there being upwards of thirty professors and lecturers, exclusive of the faculty of the Chicago Medical College, affiliated with it. The University has a library of 25,000 volumes, besides 8,000 unbound pamphlets. It has also an excellent museum of Natural History.

The institutions which have for their object the encouragement of art or the advancement of science are more numerous and flourishing than might be expected, in a city in which industrial pursuits engage the activities of a larger proportion of the population than in any other great city in the world. The names of the various societies for the encouragement of the fine arts, particularly drawing, painting and sculpture; the several musical societies, and the institutions for the pursuit of science and philosophy, will be found under the head of Societies and Clubs. With the exception of the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, located in a new and beautiful building on East Jackson street, these societies do not own the houses they occupy.

Churches.

Excepting the red man's invocations of the Great Spirit, and the possible sacred exercises of Marquette and Joliet, who visited the shores of Lake Michigan in the 17th century, the first religious services held on the site of the City of Chicago were conducted by members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, residing at Fort Dearborn, in the winter of 1831-2. The Presbyterians, however, were the first to erect a church building, which they did in 1833. The Baptists organized a church the same year, and were followed by the Episcopalians in 1834. It was not until 1851 that the Congregationalists obtained a footing in the young settlement.

The present number of societies, among which almost all denominations of Christians are represented, does not fall far short of 300, nearly all of them worshipping in their own edifices.

The most noteworthy buildings are the two Roman Catholic Churches of the Holy Name and the Holy Family; the former, the Cathedral Church of the Catholic diocese, an ornate gothic structure at the corner of N. State and Superior streets [P 7], and the latter, popularly known as the Jesuit Church, an edifice the interior of which is extremely rich and beautiful, at the corner of May and W. Twelfth streets, adjoining St. Ignatius College [J 15]. Among other fine churches are the Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul, Grace and Trinity (Episcopal); Immanuel (Baptist); Second Presbyterian; Plymouth and New England (Congregational); St. Paul's (Universalist); Centenary (Methodist); Unity and the Church of the Messiah (Unitarian).

Among the clergy of the City are some of the most distinguished ornaments of the American pulpit.

A list of churches, with hours of service and preachers for the day, is published in the newspapers every Sunday morning.

The Public Library.

Despite its disadvantageous location on the upper floors of a building in every respect ill adapted to its requirements, the Public Library is one of the most popular institutions of the City, and one whose usefulness it is almost impossible to overestimate. It is lodged in hired rooms on the corner of Dearborn and Lake streets, directly opposite the Tremont House.

Its establishment dates from 1872, when, in commemoration of the fire of October, 1871, a great number of authors and publishers, many of them English, generously contributed copies of their works. The nucleus thus formed has grown into a magnificent collection of 92,312 volumes, the greater part of which belong to the circulating department which belong the reviews, encyclopædias, and a very valuable collection of British and American patent reports, the binding of which alone cost over $10,000, was 38,484, the volumes consulted numbering 117,074.

The books issued to borrowers, during the year ending May 31, 1882, numbered 349,977, a daily average of 1,144.

The reading room is supplied with 124 newspapers and 252 periodicals. It was visited in 1881-2 by 366,118 persons.

The entire cost of this excellent institution, for the financial year ending May 31, 1882, was only $44,886, of which the sum of $10,052 was expended in the purchase of new books, and $5,896 in newspapers, periodicals, binding and repairing. The librarian is Dr. William F. Poole, to whom the literary and scientific world is indebted for the well-known "Index to Periodical Literature."

The Chicago Press.

In keeping with the commercial activity and energy of Chicago are the spirit and enterprise of its press. It publishes no fewer than 194 newspapers and magazines, of which 13 are dailies, 98 weeklies, 14 semi-monthlies, 59 monthlies, and 10 quarterlies. The Evening Journal, established in 1844, is a staunch advocate of Republican principles. The Tribune, a powerful morning journal, two years its junior, is conducted with great ability as a liberal Republican organ. The Times, formerly an advocate of the principles of the Democracy, is now independent in politics, and is distinguished for its vigor and fearlessness. The Inter Ocean, an excellent morning journal of the staunchest Republican type, was established in 1872. The News and Herald are two-cent morning dailies, having a large circulation. The former issues editions at noon, three o'clock and five o'clock, which have an immense sale. The Telegram, a recent addition to the number of daily papers published in the City, is an evening paper, Democratic in principle. Among these journals the visitor will recognize some of the ablest and most influential leaders of public opinion on the Continent. In addition to those enumerated, several foreign and commercial publications are issued daily.

Parks and Boulevards.

The park and boulevard system of Chicago is one of the most extensive in the world. When completed, it will encompass the city on three sides, forming a series of drives almost unrivaled. The visitor who would see something of its extent and varied attractions will have to make separate journeys to the north, west and south limits of the City, several important links in the chain having yet to be made.

'Lincoln Park, covering, as extended, an area of 310 acres, is in the North Division, on the Lake Shore. Among its approaches from the south is the Lake Shore Drive, a fine boulevard, commencing near the North Division Waterworks [Q 7]. Lincoln Park has some beautiful drives, walks, miniature lakes, rustic bridges, groves and grottoes; also a conservatory, and a very respectable zoological collection. It is the most popular of the City parks, and the one to be seen by visitors whose time is limited. It can be reached by street cars from the corner of State and Lake streets, but to drive by carriage will enable the visitor to see the Criminal Court and Jail, the rooms of the Chicago Historical Society (corner of Dearborn avenue and Ontario street), the Roman Catholic Cathedral [see Churches], and the Waterworks [page 11], en route, besides approaching the Park by the Lake Shore Drive.

The West Side parks belonging to the great encircling system [see Map] are Douglas Park, 185 acres, reached by Ogden avenue cars; Garfield (formerly Central) Park, 185 acres, intersected by the W. Madison street railway; and Humboldt Park, 225 acres; the three connected by completed boulevards. These parks are all laid out with great taste and skill. They are four miles from the Court House, and a considerable distance from any thickly settled quarter of the City; but the 300,000 residents of the West Side have other parks, effectively performing, in densely populated districts, the functions of lungs of the City. These are Union [I 11], Jefferson [J 12], and Vernon [J 14], aggregating only about 32 acres, but made very attractive by a judicious outlay of money and the skill of an accomplished landscape gardener. Visitors to the West Side parks will do well to see the Cook County Hospital and the neighboring medical colleges [pp. 22, 27] at the same time.

The South Parks are approached by the most beautiful boulevard in the city, Michigan avenue. Starting from the Exposition Building, the visitor passes the Leland Hotel and the College of Pharmacy on the right, the latter at the corner of Van Buren street. On his left, the green expanse of Lake Park stretches out almost to the edge of the lake, from which it is separated only by the track of the Illinois Central Railroad. Away out are the light-house, the breakwaters and crib [see Waterworks]; and the surface of the lake is dotted with the white sails of innumerable craft. On Michigan and Prairie avenues, the latter two blocks east, south of Sixteenth street, the domestic architecture of Chicago is seen at its best. Every available material, from wood, brick, sandstone and limestone to granite, marble and terra cotta, has been employed, and wrought up into forms of beauty hardly less creditable to the merchant prince who could appreciate than to the architect who could design them. Passing the Jewish Synagogue of the Sons of Peace [street number 1455] and the fine Universalist Church of St. Paul, with its noble portico and beautiful rose-window, Twentieth street is reached. Here, on the northeast corner, has been erected a magnificent house for the Calumet Club. It is in the Queen Anne style, and cost, with the ground and furniture, about a quarter of a million dollars. On the northwest corner stands the handsome edifice of the Second Presbyterian Society. One block east and south are the First Presbyterian Church and the Synagogue of the Sinai Congregation. Two blocks west, at 2020 State street, are the headquarters of the City (Cable) Railway Company, where is exerted the force which propels, through many miles of streets, the hundreds of cable cars which the visitor sees gliding noiselessly along. At Twenty-third street, Immanuel (Baptist) Church, on the right, and the Church of the Messiah (Unitarian), on the left, are passed. Near Twenty-fourth street are Christ (Episcopal Reformed) Church and the Moseley Grammar School. Between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth streets, on the east side, is Plymouth (Congregational) Church, a fine edifice; and at the south-east corner of the latter, Trinity (Episcopal) Church, a neat, double-turreted, gothic structure. South of Thirty-third street many vacant lots are encountered, and the boulevard, beautiful throughout, assumes a suburban character. From Thirty-third or Thirty-fifth street, the University of Chicago [see Educational institutions] and the Douglas Monument may conveniently be visited. They are located a few blocks east, near Cottage Grove avenue. Having pursued his way to Thirty-ninth street (Oak wood boulevard), where he enters the township of Hyde Park, the visitor will proceed to Washington Park (formerly known as the West Division of the South Park), by Drexel boulevard. This magnificent drive, which is 200 feet wide throughout, and a mile and a quarter in length, is laid out after the model of the celebrated Avenue l'Imperatrice, at Paris. Parallel with it, five blocks west, runs Grand boulevard, by which the return journey may be made. An immense amount of money has been expended on the two South parks, Washington and Jackson [see Map], and, as far as completed, they are delightful pleasure resorts; the former, which contains one of the largest unbroken lawns in the world, and also a fine conservatory, being not unlike the famous Kew Gardens, near London. It may be mentioned that a dummy railway has been laid from Oakwood boulevard south to Fifty-fifth street, along which it runs east, to near the north end of Jackson Park [see Map]. Fifty-fifth street, for $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles west of Washington Park, has been laid out as part of the encircling system, and given the name of Garfield boulevard. It is an almost perfect drive, but its extension northward, as shown in the map, will not be completed for some time.

Hotels.

The hotels of Chicago have a world-wide reputation. The Palmer House, an immense fire-proof structure, occupying almost an entire square on the southeast corner of State and Monroe streets, is one of the finest buildings in the City, representing, with its furniture and the ground upon which it stands, a capital of nearly $4,000,000. It contains 718 rooms, and it is claimed that its decoration alone costs an annual sum of $100,000. The Grand Pacific is a magnificent pile, extending from Clark to La Salle street, on the north side of Jackson street. It is six stories high, sumptuously furnished throughout, and celebrated for its cuisine. The Tremont is a beautiful house on the southeast corner of Lake and Dearborn streets. While it can no longer be said that travelers can sit in its doorway and shoot ducks in the slough, the Tremont House is as popular to-day as was its predecessor with the pioneers of the City. The Sherman House is a large and excellently appointed hotel, on the northwest corner of Clark and Randolph streets, opposite the Court House and City Hall. It has the advantage of being located in the business centre of the City, and within a stone's-throw of the various railroad ticket offices, which, with few exceptions, are situated on this part of Clark street. The Leland Hotel occupies a beautiful location on the Lake Front, close to the Exposition Building. Away from the noise and excitement of the business quarter, this excellent hotel finds much favor. Among less expensive houses are: the Briggs, corner of Randolph and Fifth avenue; the Commercial, corner of Lake and Dearborn streets; the Crawford, corner of Wabash avenue and Adams street; the Clifton, corner of Wabash avenue and Monroe street; and the Matteson, corner of Wabash avenue and Jackson street; all within a few minutes' walk of the Court House.

Theatres and Amusements.

The theatre-going public enjoy a continual round of high class entertainment. Haverly's, Hooley's and McVicker's theatres and the Grand Opera House stand in the front rank, and the Academy of Music is rapidly advancing to an equally high position. Concerts and lectures are given in the Central Music Hall, a large and handsome building on the corner of State and Randolph streets; Farwell Hall, 148 Madison street; the Hershey Music Hall, 83 Madison street, and elsewhere.

Commerce, Manufactures, Etc.

While a commercial history of the world would contain many stirring chapters, and record much around which time has thrown a halo of romance, it would narrate no more marvelous story than that of the rise of Chicago's greatness. Chicago is more widely known to-day than any other American city, not excepting the capital or the great Atlantic seaport. Its fame, as it has extended to other countries, and probably throughout a large part of the United States also, is, however, that of a great grain and live-stock market only, the importance of its lumber trade and the extent of its manufacturing industries being, for obvious reasons, less widely known. Meat-packing is the oldest of Chicago's industries. In the fall of 1882 G. W. Dole slaughtered the first lot of cattle ever packed in Chicago. They numbered 200 head, and cost $2.75 per cwt. About 350 hogs, costing $3 per cwt., were slaughtered and packed at the same time. Forty-eight years later, the city received, within twelve months, no fewer than 7,059,355 live hogs, 1,382,477 cattle, and 335,810 sheep. During the last two years the number of hogs received has declined, owing to a partial failure of the corn crop of 1881, but the proportion of the hog products of the country handled by Chicago has kept on increasing, while a great increase has also taken place in its receipts of cattle and sheep. In 1882, the figures were 5,816,937 hogs, 1,582,237 cattle, and 626,948 sheep, the total value being estimated at $202,300,000. The shipments for the same period were 1,747,444 live hogs, 40,294 dressed hogs, 920,337 cattle, 313,173 sheep, 620,928,579 lbs. of cured meats, 142,006 packages of beef, 431,361 barrels of pork, 240,661,267 lbs. of lard, 93,071,259 lbs. of hides, 44,888,533 lbs. of wool, and 16,066,296 lbs. of tallow.

The Union Stock Yards [K 24], in which this enormous business centres, cover no less than 350 acres of ground. In 3,300 pens, 1,800 covered and 1,500 open, provision is made for handling at one time 25,000 head of cattle, 14,000 sheep and 150,000 hogs. The yards contain 20 miles of streets, 20 miles of water troughs, 50 miles of feeding troughs, and 45 miles of water and drainage pipes. Five artesian wells, having an average depth of 1,230 feet, afford an abundant supply of water. There are also 87 miles of railroad tracks, all the great roads having access to this vast market. The entire cost was $4,000,000.

The meat-packing industry is carried on in immediate proximity to the Stock Yards. The extent of its operations in 1882 having already been stated, it is only necessary to add that a single business, that controlled by Messrs. Armour & Co., occupies 70 acres of flooring and employs 3,500 men. It included, in 1882, the slaughter of 1,200,000 hogs, and the manufacture of 50,000 lbs. of pork and Bologna sausages per day. The stock yards and packing houses (the former free, the latter usually shown to visitors upon application,) can be reached by rail from Van Buren street depot (trains infrequent), or by State street cable or South Halsted street horse cars.

amount had risen to 2,160,000 bushels, and in 1855, after the opening of railroads to the East, to 21,583,221 bushels of grain, about two-thirds of which consisted of wheat. Last year, 1882, the total receipts of breadstuffs were no less than 127,722,996 bushels, valued at $97,000,000, and the shipments 117,148,306 bushels. There are 25 registered grain elevators, with an aggregate capacity of 26,200,000 bushels.

The lumber receipts in 1882 were 2,052,216,000 feet, and the shipments 1,076,880,000 feet. The number of shingles received was 897,477,000, and the total shipment was 149,435,000. The lumber district lies south of Twenty-second street, between Halsted street and Ashland avenue, its western limits being near the West Side Waterworks. [See Waterworks.]

At the close of 1882 there were in the City 2,182 manufacturing establishments, excluding those of food products. The number of employés was 96,654, their wages amounting to $53,000,000. The capital employed was $82,000,000, and the value of their products was estimated at $311,000,000.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, CORNER OF MONROE AND DEARBORN STREETS.

The entire trade of the City in 1882 was estimated by the Chicago Tribune at $1,045,000,000.

In this connection it only remains to notice the shipping returns. In 1882, the arrivals were 13,094 coasting vessels and 257 vessels engaged in foreign trade, a total of 13,351, with a tonnage of 4,849,950. The clearances numbered 13,299 coasting vessels and 327 vessels engaged in foreign trade, a total of 13,626, with an aggregate tonnage of 4,904,999. In the month of September the arrivals averaged 64 per day, and the clearances 65. The marine collections amounted to $32,102. [See Post Office and Custom House.]

The Banks.

On May 1, 1883, 12 National Banks were doing business in Chicago. The total amount of their capital and surplus was $11,905,000. They held deposits amounting to $66,298,965, and the amount of their loans was $44,432,473. At the head of these great financial concerns stands the First National Bank, lately removed into a new and magnificent building on the northwest corner of Dearborn and Monroe streets. While the National Banks claim special recognition, a glance at the list of banks and bankers shows that numerically they are but a small proportion of the wealthy houses which furnish the merchants and manufacturers of Chicago with the banking facilities they require.

The Fire of 1871.

The destructive fire of 1871 originated on Sunday night, Oct. 8, near the corner of Jefferson and DeKoven streets, where Mrs. O'Leary's fractious cow is said to have kicked over a kerosene lamp, setting fire to the contents of the shed. At that time, a strong gale was blowing from the southwest, which soon fanned an insignificant blaze into a sea of flame, and whirled the firebrands on their errands of destruction far in advance of the general conflagration. From Jefferson street to the river, the fire speedily advanced. The many little frame shanties, inhabited mostly by the foreign element, gave it fuel and strength for its attack upon the more substantial buildings. The fire department worked heroically, but with no avail. At midnight the west bank of the river was one complete mass of fire. Soon afterward the flames leaped the river, first at Van Buren street, and subsequently at many other places. The South Side was doomed. All hope of controlling the conflagration was now abandoned. Water seemed only to increase the heat. Nothing but lack of fuel could stop its fearful career. Men watched the destruction of their property unable to do the least for its protection. Within three hours, the flames had traversed the heart of the city, burning from the South branch of the River to the Lake, and had leaped the River to the North Side. Buildings blown up on Congress street prevented the further progress of the fire toward the south. On the North Side, however, nothing could arrest the advancing flames. Lying in a favorable direction for the wind-driven fire, nothing but entire destruction could be expected. The Waterworks were first assailed, cutting off the last ray of hope in that direction; the business houses next suffered, and then the dwelling houses. From the River to Fullerton avenue, beyond Lincoln Park, and from the Lake almost to Halsted street, everything was destroyed, with the single exception of the frame residence of Mr. Mahlon Ogden, which, secluded among the trees of its extensive grounds, was left uninjured.

Within twenty-four hours nearly three and one-third square miles of the densely populated City of Chicago had been swept away. The large wholesale and commission houses, which had attracted the trade of the entire Northwest, the depots and rolling stock of the various railroads, the docks and shipping, everything which helped to make Chicago the great commercial centre of the West, lay in ashes. The court-house, post office, chamber of commerce, and many substantial hotels, and other buildings, all had yielded to the destroyer. Brick buildings, stone buildings, buildings that were considered fire-proof, succumbed to the intensity of the heat. Nearly 18,000 buildings were destroyed, the entire loss being estimated at no less than $190,000,000, of which only $44,000,000 was covered by insurance. The homes of 98,500 persons were consumed; many previously well-to-do residents lost everything they possessed, and were rendered entirely dependent either upon their more fortunate friends or upon the contributions which poured in from almost every part of the world, for the relief of the sufferers. Before the embers had died out, work was begun by the removal of the debris, so preparing the way for the magnificent buildings which now hide from view all traces of the memorable fire of 1871.

Sundry Jottings.

In 1800 the population of Illinois was 2,458.

The site of Chicago was surveyed in 1829 by order of Commissioners appointed by the Illinois State Legislature.

The first newspaper printed in Chicago was published Nov. 26, 1833.

Where the Post Office now stands there was wolf-hunting in 1834.

There were rejoicings in 1833 that goods could be transported from New York to St. Louis in the short space of twenty-three days.

The charter incorporating the City of Chicago was approved March 4, 1837.

St. James' Church is the oldest Episcopal church in the City.

The City was first lighted by gas September, 1850.

The first railroad in the Northwest was the Galena and Chicago Union, completed to Harlem in 1848, and to Elgin in 1850.

The Rock Island road was opened as far as Joliet in 1851.

The Illinois Central railroad was chartered in 1851.

Communication with New York was established in 1852 by the completion of the Michigan Southern, connecting with the Erie R. R.

Some of the early settlers feared that canals and railroads would ruin the city.

The first permanent white settler was John Kinzie, an Indian trader in the employ of the American Fur Company. [See Kinzie House.]

The City contains 3,453 fire hydrants and 13,740 street lamps.

The new building of the First National Bank cost $500,000.

Chicago has 3,700 licensed saloons, with a gross annual income estimated at $12,000,000.

The trade of Chicago in 1882 was an increase of 3 per cent. over that of 1881.

The La Salle and Washington street tunnels cost upwards of $1,000,000.

The private schools of Chicago, 149 in number, had 32,038 pupils in June, 1882.

Of the immigrants who arrived in this country last year, 60 per cent. passed through Chicago.

Chicago ranks next to Pittsburgh in the production of steel and iron.

One-third of the axle-grease used in this country is manufactured in Chicago.

The food products shipped East by rail in 1882 weighed 1,671,917 tons.

The cars of grain received in Chicago last year would have made a train more than a thousand miles long.

The total frontage of new buildings erected in the City in 1882 was 14 miles.

The water used by the City in 1882 would have filled a canal 60 feet wide, 6 feet deep and 1,700 miles long, or have covered the entire City to a depth of $3\frac{1}{4}$ feet.

American Panorama.

One of the most striking and beautiful buildings on Wabash avenue, is that built by the American Panorama Company for the exhibition of F. Philippoteaux' last and greatest battle-piece, "The Siege of Paris; or, The Battle of Montretout." It is located at the southeast corner of Wabash avenue and Hubbard Court. The height of the main building, which is circular, is over 80 feet, and the circumference is more than 400 feet. The entrance building in front is a model of architectural beauty. Embowered in trees, with lawns in front and at the sides, this immense structure presents a striking appearance. The great painting itself corresponds in size to the proportions of the building. It is recognized by artists and connoisseurs as one of the masterpieces of the century, and by the general public as one of the grandest productions of genius. It is open from 8.30 a. m. until 10.30 p. m., Sundays included.

HACK ORDINANCE.

Rates of Fare for Hacks, Cabs and other Two-Horse Vehicles.

For conveying one or two passengers from one railroad depot to another railroad depot, one dollar.

For conveying one or two passengers not exceeding one mile, one dollar.

For conveying one or two passengers any distance over one mile and less than two miles, one dollar and fifty cents.

For each additional two passengers of same party or family, fifty cents.

For conveying one or two passengers in said city any distance exceeding two miles, two dollars.

For each additional passenger of the same party or family, fifty cents.

For conveying children between five and fourteen years of age, half the above price may be charged for like distances; but for children under five years of age no charge shall be made—provided that the distance from any railroad depot, steamboat landing or hotel to any other railroad depot, steamboat landing or hotel shall in all cases be estimated as not exceeding one mile.

For the use by day of any hackney coach or other vehicle drawn by two horses or other animals, with one or more passengers, per day, eight dollars.

For the use of any such carriage or vehicle by the hour, with one or more passengers, with the privilege of going from place to place and stopping as often as may be required, as follows: For the first hour, two dollars; for each additional hour or part of an hour, one dollar.

Every passenger shall be allowed to have conveyed upon such vehicle without charge, his ordinary traveling baggage, not exceeding in any case one trunk and twenty-five pounds of other baggage. For every additional package, where the whole weight of baggage is over one hundred pounds, if conveyed to any place within the city limits, the owner or driver shall be permitted to charge fifteen cents.

OMNIBUS AND BAGGAGE TRANSFER RATES.

Omnibuses run between all the depots and to all the principal hotels, connecting with all passenger trains. The rate of fare to or from any depot or hotel is fifty cents, payable in exchange for a ticket to the agent on the train or to the collector in the vehicle. The price charged by the same company (Pardee's) for transferring baggage to or from any train, and to or from any place within the city limits, is fifty cents for the first piece and twenty-five cents for each piece additional.

STREETS AND AVENUES.

EXPLANATORY.

The letters and figures following the names of streets in heavy black type are given to ascertain their location on the map. Take, for example, Aberdeen (W. D.), J-13:

On each side of the map are figures reading downward, and along the margin, top and bottom, are the letters of the alphabet, reading from left to right. J-13 refers to that point on the map where lines, if drawn from 13 to 13 east and west, and from J to J north and south, would intersect each other at right angles; Aberdeen would be found at such intersection.

In this way any place or building in the city may be located, if two intersecting streets in the vicinity are known. For example: the West Division Water Tower and Pumping Station are at Twenty-second street and Ashland avenue. In the street directory it will be found that Ashland avenue is noted as I-10. Referring on the map to the letter I, and drawing a line to the level of the figure 10 at the sides of the map, it will be found that this avenue runs north and south, merging into North Ashland avenue at Randolph street. Twenty-second street may be traced in the same way and the intersection found.

HANSOM CAB ORDINANCE.

Rates of Fare for Hansom Cabs and other One-Horse Vehicles.

The prices or rates of fare to be asked or demanded by the owners or drivers of cabs or other vehicles drawn by one horse or other animal for the conveyance of passengers for hire, shall be not more than as follows :

One mile, or fraction thereof, for each passenger for the first mile, twenty-five cents.

One mile or fraction thereof, for any distance after first mile, for one or more passengers, twenty-five cents.

For the first hour, seventy-five cents.

For each quarter-hour additional after first hour, twenty-five cents.

For service outside of city limits and in the parks, for the first hour, one dollar.

For each quarter-hour additional after the first hour, twenty-five cents.

The provision regarding amount of baggage allowed free, and rates of charge for excess, is the same as in the Hack Ordinance (page 88).

The Hansom Cab Companies publish the following rates:

DISTANCE RATES.

One mile or less, for each passenger, twenty-five cents.

Each additional mile, or fraction thereof, one or two passengers, twenty-five cents.

For one stop or wait of not over five minutes, no charge will be made.

For over five minutes, or more than one stop or wait, ten cents will be charged for each ten minutes or part thereof.

Packages too large to be carried inside will be charged ten cents.

HOURLY RATES.

For one or two persons, per hour, within four mile limit, seventy-five cents.

For each quarter-hour additional, or fraction thereof, twenty cents.

For one or two persons, per hour, outside four-mile limit, also Lincoln Park, one dollar.

For each quarter-hour additional, or fraction thereof, twenty-five cents.

When continuous stop of one-half hour or more is made, the charge per hour will be at the rate of seventy cents. When service is desired by the hour, it must be so stated at the time of engaging the cab, otherwise the distance rate will be charged.

Hour engagements, when the cab is discharged at a distance of over half a mile from the stand, the time necessary to return to the stand will be charged for. No time engagements will be made for less than the price for one hour.

—THE—
JARVIS BRANDY

(VINTAGE 1877.)

PUREST, SAFEST and BEST.

This Brandy was distilled in 1877 from choice Reisling grapes grown on the Santa Cruz Mountains, at a high altitude. It has been awarded First Prize Gold Medal at New Orleans World's Fair, and Seven Gold Medals at State and District Fairs in California.

Dr. BEVERLY COLE,

The great physician of San Francisco, says: "The Jarvis Brandy is the finest made in our country."

Dr. THOS. PRICE,

The great assayer of the Pacific Coast, says: "I have submitted the Jarvis Brandy to a most searching chemical analysis, and find it free from adulteration. It is a remarkably pure article."

Ask your druggist for it, and if he don't handle it address,

Scarcely!

CAUTION!

This is the original "NORTH STAR" WASHBOARD. BEWARE OF IMITATIONS which acknowledge their own inferiority by attempting to build upon the reputation of the original. You can not be sure of getting the genuine unless you are careful to examine and see that our stamp appears plainly on the Board.

This Washboard is made of One Solid Sheet of Heavy Corrugated Zinc, which produces a Double Faced Board of the very Best Quality and Durability. The Fluting is very deep, holding more water and consequently doing better washing than any other Washboard in the market. The frame is made of Hard Wood, and held together with an Iron Bolt running through a tube formed on the lower edge of the zinc, thus binding the whole together in the most substantial manner, and producing a Washboard which for Economy, Excellence and Durability is unquestionably the BEST IN THE WORLD. The quality of these Boards has won for them so high a place in public estimation that they stand to-day absolutely without a rival.

The merits of these Boards have caused such an enormous increase in the demand for them that we can now furnish proof that our celebrated factory produces a larger quantity of Boards of this grade than any other factory in the world. Our factory is run first and above all in the interest of consumers. By giving their claims our first attention, we best further the interests of the retail trade, and by so doing best advance our own.

CAUTION! We have been informed that some retailers, when they are asked for the "NORTH STAR" WASHBOARD, reply that they "haven't it," but that they "have a better one for the same price." You are probably aware that some retailers prefer to sell whatever they happen to have in stock; and the only way for you to get what you want is to insist upon having it.

Persons who allow BOARDS to be forced on them, said to be as good as The "NORTH STAR," must expect to be deceived. SEE THAT YOU GET WHAT YOU ASK FOR. Intelligent women are adopting The "NORTH STAR" BOARD, and those who have done so are already beginning to look down with pity on persons who are set in their old ways.
